FACTS ABOUT GRAD STUDENT SUPPORT

Graduate student support is crucial to help our students offset the cost of their education, earn income during their graduate studies, and serves as an important tool to recruit the best graduate students globally.

In addition to employment income provided in teaching assistantships, we offer each student a mix of support, which may include U of T fellowships, scholarships or awards, and research assistantships.

U of T pays its grad student teaching assistants more than peer institutions.

* Average hourly wage

 New hourly rate at the end of proposed tentative agreement

If you have any questions regarding Graduate Student financial support, please visit with your department head.
